POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED SUNDAY

A pretty wedding of much interest to residents of Vulcan and High River districts was solemnized on Sunday last, the contracting parties being Mr. Allan Murray and Miss Isabelle Flood, of Vulcan, both of whom are well known and deservedly popular. The ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Vulcan, was conducted by Rev. Peter Dawson of Champion.

The bride, who was attired in a blue silk crepe ensemble and carried a bouquet of pink tea roses and sweet peas, was attended by her youngest sister Winnifred Flood.

The groom was supported by Mr. Roy Barnhill of Humber, Alta., and it is interesting to note that the groom performed a similar service for Barnhill two years ago.

Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Flynn, Vulcan; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barnhill, Humber; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Devereaux, Vulcan; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Brown, Vulcan; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Duggan, Blackie; owing to circumstances, Mr. and Mrs. Strachan, Turner Valley (sister and brother-in-law of the groom) also Mr. Stan Blake and Miss Pearl Scott of Calgary were unable to be present.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a wedding dinner, the table being centred by a three-tier wedding cake.

Later the newly married couple left for a honeymoon trip to Banff and to the home of the groom, with the best wishes of a large circle of friends. The bride's going-away dress was of yellow flat crepe with hat to match.

LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. E. Tebruge, Mrs. E. A. Garrison and Mrs. Tebruge, all of Peoria, Ill., were recent visitors at the home of their sister, Mrs. A. Markert of Kirkcaldy. Mr. Wm. Tebruge and Mrs. E. Becker (mother of Mrs. Markert) were also in the party and, after a visit with Mr. Henry Becker, all have commenced the journey to their homes.

In the prize winners of the Dominion Day sports at Nanton appearing in the Nanton News of July 9th, we notice names of two of our local athletes, Allan Marshall and Allan McAskill, who also played with the junior baseball team in the tournament on that day. The former winning one first prize and the latter three first prizes.

A wedding of much local interest occurred at the St. Andrews Anglican church at Blackie on Wednesday, July 8th, when Lillian Estelle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Evans, was united in marriage with Mr. Homer Thaddeus Wilderman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilderman of Blackie, the Rev. V. S. Lord officiating. Both the bride and groom are known to many in this district.

KIND WORDS FOR OUR BAND

The Vulcan band was again forced to take second place to the Stettler band at the Calgary Stampede. It will be generally agreed that the band of music in this competition must be of a high standard when a band as good as that of Vulcan is beaten for first place. While there are a few local players involved this does not account for the interest felt in town in the success of the Vulcan aggregation. They have won the highest appreciation on their visits here. Another year, perhaps, better fortune will attend them.—Champion Chronicle.

BOOST FOR WALKER & SON

"Timely Topics," in the Lethbridge Herald, referring to Guy Walker and Son, Reid Hill, says:

"For instance, on this big farm, which in co-operation with his son Ross, Mr. Guy Walker operates primarily as a wheat farm, well over 20,000 bushels of wheat were grown last year, on land summerfallowed with a wheatland plow, and the wheat was cut with a combine and delivered with a truck. But about 20 cows were milked all winter; there's a nice bunch of beef cattle on the place; there's always a few sizable loads of hogs to be delivered, and this spring about 99 bushels of seed corn were sold at $3.50 a bushel. One might think that it isn't worth while bothering with cows, hogs and seed corn on a farm that can produce more than 20,000 bushels of wheat a year. But Mr. Walker thinks these things are just about right."

GOOD PROGRAMS AT CHAUTAUQUA

Chautauqua week in Vulcan for 1931 was away to a good start on Monday, when the customary kiddies' parade took place. The youngsters were invited to masquerade in the characters prominent in well-known kiddies' stories and, in good numbers, they splendidly responded. Much care and skill were evinced in every costume and make-up and the judges: Mr. J. E. Dawson, Mrs. Schenck and Mr. Guy Denbigh, must have had a difficult task in making the awards which will be announced on Saturday. The whole affair was under the capable direction of Miss Clements of Canadian Chautauqua.

Tuesday the Meredith Players presented "Bought and Paid For," a drama that goes straight to every heart. It has pathos and is at times funny. It always has a lasting effect on the audience and on a community. It is sentiment without sentimentality—dramatic without being melodramatic.

A play so natural and so moving that we are not likely ever to forget it.

Yesterday afternoon the program was presented by the Artists Trio which comprises three outstanding artists. Hugo Brandt, famous Polish pianist and composer; Joe Marks, Canadian violinist and Adeline Clark soprano soloist. Adeline Clark won the first prize in the Atwater Kent Radio contest, and in the evening of the same day, Zellner, distinguished protean artist, presented his program. Here you see Zellner as Moses, and Saul of Tarsus. These are only two of the wonderful characterizations which he presented, with full costume and original electrical stage effects.

Programmes for the remaining Chautauqua period will be found in the advertising columns. Be sure to take in the remainder of these excellent entertainments.

MORE LIQUOR IN 1914 THAN 1930
Modern People Drink More Wine, Less Beer and Less Spirit Than 17 Years Ago

The Montreal Gazette compares liquor consumption in Canada in 1914 and in 1930. The per capita consumption of spirits in 1914 was 1.103 and in 1930 it was .306; malt liquors, respectively, 7.558 and 6.27; and wines .138 and .741. Thus Canadians are drinking only about one-third as much spirits, slightly less beer and five times as much wine. But the total consumption of all alcoholic beverages is a half-gallon less per individual than it was sixteen years ago. There would thus appear to be a slight reduction in per capita liquor consumption in the last sixteen years. On the other hand, eight provinces and the federal government are partners in the liquor business, deriving therefrom a large profit and learning to depend upon this profit as a revenue essential to the state. The returns show that in ten years eight provinces took $146,039,000 in profits from liquor dealing.

THEY ALSO FEASTED

All young Canadians have spent many hours over their history books learning "the steps leading up to confederation." As the history records them, these were very serious steps, but the Lethbridge Herald reveals that even these solemn occasions had their lighter moments. It has an inviting story to tell of the numerous banquets and feasts and ceremonies that brought the provinces finally together in one confederation. If our history books would dwell more on the scenes of these banquets, it would be found much easier to fix the circumstances in the minds of the youthful students. The Herald entertainingly tells it:

"The Dominion of Canada's birthday though three generations away, came about in a surprisingly modern manner. It was the outcome of round table conference and discussion, and at the various conferences in Charlottetown, Halifax, Fredericton and Quebec, the cities spared no expense to give the 'Fathers' a happy impression and congenial atmosphere.

"At the very first conference, at Charlottetown in 1864, a banquet was on the program. It is on record that no expense or trouble was spared to make that event worthy of the occasion, so that it might save the double purpose of pleasing the guests and doing credit to the island. To this day travellers to and through Prince Edward Island tell of the oyster stews, and baked potatoes, and lamb chops for which the 'Garden of the Gulf' is famous and of which they themselves have had memorable experience; it may be that the feasters of 1864 had similar experience of native oysters and native chops, and likewise it may be that the good and kindly feelings thus engendered had something to do with paving the way for confederation.

"Charlottetown set a precedent. The Confederation party went next to Halifax, where another banquet, described as 'sumptuous,' was held. One of the delegates declared that 'in the city of Halifax hospitality has taken her seat.' Then to Fredericton and a third feast, which journalists of the time reported as very superior and highly creditable affair. There were fine speeches at both places, but the banqueting was strictly first.

"The tour of the Maritimes concluded, the delegates sailed for Quebec in the 'beautiful steamship' Victoria, loaned for the purpose by the Canadian Government. It

CUTWORMS OF 1932

Although this area was not charted as amongst those likely to be infested with the pale Western cutworm, yet information sent out by Agricultural departments is worth regarding.

The predictions in regard to infested areas made in 1930, have been justified and it is anticipated that though the outbreaks in 1932 will follow the areas of other years, yet there may be an increase of infestation. If the 1932 precipitation is above normal this will act as a check.

As has been formerly pointed out, any field left alone in August and the first half of September, will be less suitable for egg laying than worked up fields. Any cultivation during August or early September, or any action which tends to leave a dusty surface invites infestation. The crusty untouched surface discourages egg-laying.

If summerfallowing is done in late June and July, the field may be left alone till after September 15, when the ground may again be worked without fear of cutworm infestation.

It has been found that in some fields where wild oats and thistle are very bad, these patches may be cultivated in August.

This will induce the moths to lay eggs in these patches and next spring it will be found that the cutworm has been a great help in weed control. A furrow ploughed round the patches will prevent the cutworm from injuring the rest of the field.

Farm operations planned now, can do much in safeguarding against any plague next year.

was a grand trip. The Fathers of Confederation had all the comforts and luxuries afloat, and the ship's staff did their utmost to minister to the happiness of their guests. Scenic delights along the way, and particularly on the St. Lawrence, had their effect also and the delegates were in a thoroughly agreeable state of mind when they got to Quebec.

"At Quebec there was a whole string of events—a 'drawing room,' a ball, a public dinner, many speeches, and the round-table that inspired the well known picture by Harris. The process of union, which later came to a successful head, was off to a good start."

A SCENIC HIGHWAY

Of all the frequented roads in the country side, none is so beautiful as the river road, along the south side of the Highwood, and probably none so bad. The trail winds intricately through the woods for miles; overhead and roundabout it is lovely. But the road itself is the world's worst. It is so deeply rutted and so bumpy that only careful driving can negotiate it, and cars groan in protest.

This river road has been an expensive one for any municipality to maintain. It has been the victim of much flood damage through the years and has been re-made repeatedly. It is not greatly used for country traffic, most people preferring the upper road.

But it is our most beautiful road, immediately adjacent to the town. It is a soothing, scenic way—if one could fly. Numerous ideal picnic spots are available for people who cannot go far from town, or for people desiring a convenient picnic site. It seems a pity that such natural charm should not be more generally enjoyed. From an economic standpoint, possibly labor spent on other roads is more necessary. But from a scenic standpoint this road is one of our greatest assets.

Prodigious effort has gone into the road over a period of twenty-five years, but apparently the municipality has grown discouraged in expending labor that does not prove lasting. However the time will come when more attention can be given to preserving the beautiful.

The primitive Methodists of London in conference have ruled that an unmarried woman may preach. Spinsteres are gradually acquiring the privileges of matrimony.

A BIRTHDAY GIFT

Everyone has read with pleasure the story of Pat Burns reciprocal gift to the citizens of Calgary on the celebration of his seventy-fifth birthday. In appreciation of his birthday dinner party and the evident goodwill of his fellow citizens, he presented to two thousand needy families a five pound roast each, and to 4000 single unemployed he presented tickets entitling each to a fifty cent meal, or to fifty cents worth of groceries at any store.

He could have taken no better way of ensuring the entire success of his birthday celebration, and by his philanthropic act, he drew thousands who might otherwise have had no part in the happy occasion into the circle of his well wishers.

No kinder or more appreciated gift could have been made by Pat Burns at the present time, than the gift of nourishing food to needy citizens. It has made of his birthday a time of real rejoicing, not only by his personal friends, but by many who have known P. Burns only as a name. It will be a break for many, in the long chapter of deprivation and want, and his name will be spoken with gratitude.

While this friendly act establishes no precedent for the wealthy and is the observation of a very special occasion only, yet it does go to show that the possession of wealth does not necessarily remove men from the consciousness of the suffering of deserving people.

Pat Burns' charities are legion, and his voluntary recognition of the existing conditions amongst his fellow citizens, leads to the hope that other wealthy people of the country, may also be sympathetic and ready to help in some more permanent fashion.

If some constructive work program were launched by the government, it might be found that our capitalists would offer their resources, to a much greater extent than has yet been required of them.

Canadian people, rich and poor, are capable of a much greater harmony and much more purposeful action than has yet been shown. If the barrier of mutual distrust could be removed, if each could show the other that he was sincerely ready to help toward general national betterment, then the country would be well started toward better times.

A FAVORED SPOT

Local citizens returning from Eastern Canada report drought conditions supremely tragic on the prairies. They arrive in this part of southern Alberta, with a feeling of gratitude for our more favored lot.

While no one anticipates that here we will have a hundred per cent. crop or even seventy-five per cent., yet we will have in all likelihood a fair crop and plenty of fodder. The frequent rainfall, though coming somewhat late has brought vegetation forward well, and wherever the eye turns it rests upon green fields and green pastures.

Relatively speaking, we have great cause for gratitude. It is not only the actual failure of all growth, that is hard to endure in the drought areas, but the terrible depression engendered by the physical outlook. No green grass, trees wilting, foliage shrivelled, sloughs drying up and animals suffering for food and water.

Over the years, one can recall, many other seasons when this favored strip of country looked like an oasis in a desert to the traveller. Rarely has nature failed to provide something for us. Whatever conditions may be created by man made markets, we have the perpetual reassurance of nature that people may live and thrive here.

There is evidence in the last few weeks, that the plight of our less fortunate fellow citizens in the dried-out lands is receiving attention from the governments. Already they and the railways are combining to move farmers from the barren spots to points of the province which offer real hope for a new start. All this is being done without cost, and it is hoped that, after the trouble-strewn, heart breaking road of the past few years, these settlers may make a new start under happier auspices, gradually winning back their hope and faith in life.

In the meantime those of us who live in this garden spot are humbly thankful for our lot. Times are undoubtedly hard for most of us, but we can find pleasing prospects, wherever we turn. Our crop may not be up to many other years, but it is at least a crop, and the name, and there is no lack of feed in the country.

A SAFE INVESTMENT

If we were endeavoring to advertise a newspaper and secure subscriptions, we should make use of the fact that every newspaper pays its own way into the subscriber's home and really costs him nothing. The point is that it returns him more in dollars and cents than he pays for it. We cannot imagine a publication so worthless that some item of information in it, some 'bargain' advertised or some service performed is not worth more to the subscriber in real money than the cost of his subscription.

Almost every newspaper puts money into the pockets of non-subscribers. This is continuously the case when the newspaper leads or supports any movement which brings trade to the town in which it is published. It is the case when the newspaper hammers for local improvements—the spending of a dollar that two may grow in its place tomorrow.

The weekly newspaper, at two dollars a year costs the subscriber four cents an issue. We defy anyone to point out where the subscriber can spend four cents and get an equal amount of pleasure and real value. Four cents will not buy much of anything else, but it will buy the week's news of the community and supply other information and service that is likely to be worth many dollars to the reader. No other institution in the world expects so little and returns so much as does the weekly newspaper—Collingwood Bulletin.

REORGANIZE POOL

Statements from Premier Brownlee and Premier Bracken regarding pool matters have indicated that these two provinces will continue to operate the elevator systems which have been built up under Pool administration.

The Manitoba Pool's decision to free its members from obligation to pool their grain may have some bearing on the actions of the other two provinces.

Next Monday Alberta Pool delegates meet in Calgary to discuss the policy of co-operative marketing of their grain, and this is regarded as one of the most important gatherings in Pool history.

The Alberta Pool is in the strongest position of the provinces. It is evident from statements of the government that it is desirous that the Pool should continue functioning and also that the Pool itself can best manage its own elevator chain. The elevators should be operated as a unit for the benefit of Pool members.

There is the possibility that the Central Pool agency will have much less to do this year than in previous years because of Saskatchewan crop failure, and Manitoba's concession that members may market where they choose. Whether Alberta will also grant this right of open market and whether the Alberta Pool will decide to act henceforth independently, are questions that will be followed with interest.

of Trustees of the Arrowwood Consolidated school was held Saturday afternoon, July 4th at the Arrowwood school. Considerable discussion took place it being the Court of Revision meeting.A large number of Arrowwood people attended the sports day at Lake McGregor on Wednesday, July 1.
However, Arrowwood was not fortunate in the baseball tournament as they lost their game to Queenstown the score being 9-8.Arrowwood suffered a great loss when, in the early hours of Sunday morning July 5, a fire started in the billiard parlor. There was a total loss of three buildings, these being:
the Alberta Govt. Telephone office, Robert H. Andrew's billiard parlor, and Norton and Beagle's implement office. Slight damage was done to the Bank of Nova Scotia, the Rex Cafe and R. B. Jones' office. The total loss amounted to about $10,000 but all buildings were partly insured.
The alarm was given by Joe Dumka, the night operator at the telephone office. The people all turned out to help fight the flames. Henry Anderson and Norman Horning were quite badly burned about the face and hands, but Dr. Leisemer gave immediate medical attention. Water tanks supplied by A. Henry and J. Beagle hauled water and two chemical engines gave good service. All telephone lines are cut off from communication with other lines due to the "central" office being destroyed.
If it had not been for the heavy rain during the fire and well onto daybreak it is doubtful whether the bank could have been saved from the rapidly spreading flames.

Music in the Rockies

Music of an exceptionally high order will be provided for guests at the Canadian Pacific Railway's famous Banff Springs Hotel, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, this summer, by singers from the well-known Musical Crusaders organization, under the direction of Alfred Heather, an outstanding feature of the broadcasts of last winter. A light opera company has been organized, which will not only offer a carefully selected program throughout the season, but will broadcast special themes, such as Music of the Mountains, Music of the Flowers, etc., during the C. P. R.'s Friday evening radio hour of music. During the summer, Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Trial by Jury"; selected scenes from Bizet's "Carmen" and Grand's "Faust"; and three Canadian ballad operas with music by Dr. Ernest MacMillan, Dr. Haley Willan and R. G. Manson, all of Toronto, will be presented.

The pictures show the typical beauty of the Rockies; the Banff Springs Hotel; and, inset: (1) Alfred Heather, director; (2) George Lambert, baritone; (3) Trevor Curran, scenery designer; (4) Herbert Hewson, tenor; (5) Beatrice Morrison, contralto; (6) Mary Frances James, mezzo-soprano; (7) Amy Fleming, contralto; (8) Ethel Leung, soprano; (9) Stalton Lucas, bass; (10) Alice Strong, soprano; (11) Terry Horne, tenor. The stage manager is W. H. Hinchman.

Looking at the News

With Col. Hugh Clark

An American travelling through Asia writes that he was appalled by the caste prejudices of India. And he was from one of the southern States, too.

This is an opportune time to be reminded that the whale gained very little by prophet-taking.

Stolid—That quality we show on hearing what burdensome taxes some one else has to pay.

Times are really worse than we thought. A golf club has gone bankrupt.

Professional ballplayers are talking of organizing a trades union. Fans say they go out on strikes often enough as it is.

We respectfully direct the attention of our personal creditors to a proposal recently made by Herbert Hoover with reference to debt settlements.

While we are talking of sick businesses, look at the tongue of the pulp and paper industry. What does it tell? It tells of a once perfectly good business. They used to float logs, sink them, and grind them into pulp. Then some wizards came along and instead of floating logs they floated companies, soaked them in water and ground them into pulp, too. The trouble is that we can't leave a good thing alone. We overdo everything. What's not overdone is rare. And if we ever get over this, will we do it again? Sure we will. That's big business.

Sir Henry Thornton missed an excellent chance when his parliamentary critics were questioning him about his non-paying hotels. "How about your own parliamentary restaurant?" he might have asked.

Fling away ambition. See how happy Cermak was when he was elected mayor of Chicago. And look at him now!

Some one suggests that dogs should be numbered like motor cars. An appropriate one would be K9.

Thumb the leaves of an American magazine and if advertising instead of reading matter strikes the eye—well, fifteen cents a pound for that one.

A publisher in the United States warns daily newspapers of the danger to themselves through publishing radio programs. Criticism of the programs next day would be better, on the principle, that the man who goes to see a play is more likely to read what the papers have to say about it than if he hadn't seen the play.

It is heresy to utter one word against government ownership but it can be more easily included in the creed if and when the parliament of Canada, given free light and fuel and freedom from rent and taxes, is able to show that it can run a restaurant and show a profit.

A man's house is his castle, but that does not prevent other men, and women, trying to make its threshold their place of business.

An important precedent has been established at Ottawa, viz., that it is not improper or impertinent, for an employer to inquire what wages he pays his hired help. Under the decision, the hired men are obliged to tell the boss what wages they are drawing. The ruling is considered drastic by some while others hail it as a distinct advance in our economic development.

And Lloyd George said to the chief government whip:

"Jest send in your chief an' surrender."

—It's worse if you fight or you runs;

You can go where you please, you can skid up the trees, but you don't get away from the guns."

And all this while, Baldwin, a cousin of the poet, is smokin' his pipe on the mountings.

There is an agitation for a retrial of the case of Mr. Aemilius Jarvis who was fined half-a-million dollars on account of certain bond transactions for the Ontario government. At the time the transactions took place we can recall that other brokers were either sore or sorry that they were not getting a slice of the business.

Dr. P. D. Ross, editor of the Ottawa Journal, has written the story of his life. Haven't seen it yet, and wonder whether he tells of the narrow escape he had once while he was sporting editor of the old Toronto Mail. He got into a dispute with a stranger who had called at his office to discuss a sporting event. One angry word led to another and P.D. ordered him out and threatened to kick him downstairs. The stranger smiled and withdrew. That night, the editor went to see a prize fight and discovered that his visitor was a contender in the main bout. He was the champion of the United States!
